Miss Julia Marcum, 79, of Williamsburg, Ky., is the only woman member of the G. A. R. and the only woman who draws a civil war pension in her own name. She was never actually a member of the federal forces, but she fought with detachments in the neighborhood of Huntsville, Tenn. and lost an eye and a finger in one combat.

TENNESSE BANK IS ROBBED OF $10,000

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 30.—The Farmer's Bank of Jasper, Tenn., 20 miles from here, was robbed of $10,000 this morning by two white bandits who followed the cashier into the building when he appeared to open the doors.

They escaped in an automobile but not until the bank officials had secured a good description of them.

HIP

Susan E. Wilson, has brought suit against F. H. Wilson, receiver of the green line to recover $25,000 damages. She states that on July 26 she took a car and told the conductor she wanted to get off at the B. & O. crossing on Lake avenue. When the car arrived there, it stopped, and the conductor ran ahead to throw the switch. She was leaving the car when it started throwing her to the pavement. She received a broken hip and states she has been crippled for life.

MRS. H. E. ALDRICH
DIED LAST NIGHT

Mrs. H. E. Aldrich, 114 Wurst court, died last night at 7.05 at the age of 54 years. Death ended a long illness.

The deceased leaves her mother, Mrs. Clifford, who lives at 144 Wurst court and her husband, who was in Chicago at the time of her death. Her son Lee Aldrich died in the air service in London, England. Mrs. Aldrich came here from Detroit six years ago and is a member of the Eastern Stars and Civic Club.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

The deceased has resided at times with her son in Elyria and has 2 grandchildren and four great grandchildren in the city.

Woman Jurist Separated From Jury by Forgetting Nightie

MARIETTA, O., Jan. 30.—Consternation presided in the common pleas court of Washington county here last midnight, when a woman juror, in an important criminal case, informed the court through a woman that she could not go to a hotel to spend the night with the other members of the jury because she had left her wool nightgown at home.

Judge D. H. Thomas, could find no way out of the dilemma and was about to throw up his hands
when the defendant in the action on which the jury had been deadlocked for eight hours solved the problem. He informed the court that he would waive his legal rights and proposed that the jury were endeavoring to deliver liquor to a customer on Western Heights

Detective Dern has been working on this case for some time, and knew when the shipment left Cleveland, so had everything set when it arrived. The officers arrested Dan Margronn and his wife, Elizabeth, of 1056 Holm-den avenue. They had a new Studebaker with ten gallons of liquor in it. The officers state that the pair have heretofore made deliveries in a Ford, but evidently business has been good so that had procured a better car.
The pair were taken to the county jail and locked up.

This afternoon Margronn was brought before Judge Webber, and charged with transporting liquor. He pleaded guilty and was fined $1,000 and costs. His wife was released on her own recognizance, and being unable to pay he was sent to jail.

members go to their homes for torney agreed to this plan and it was followed.

L. L. Dutton, former county commissioner, had been on trial for five days on a charge of having accepted a bribe. From four o'clock until midnight the jury had stood six for conviction and six for acquittal. It resumed its deliberations this morning.

This is believed to be the first time in the history of this county that a jury in an important criminal case has been permitted to separate before it had finished its deliberations and been discharged.

FRENCH GIVEN OVERTURES BY GREAT BRITAIN

Labor Government Plans to Renew and Strengthen Entente Cordiale —
Ready to Meet Half Way

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald head of Great Britain's new Labor government, has made overtures to France for renewal and strengthening of the entente cordiale, it was learned this afternoon.

The new cabinet's action comes in the face of accusations by Laborite leaders that France is militastic and is sowing the seeds of future discord in Europe.

Unusual speed is being made by the Labor cabinet in dealing with domestic and foreign problems. Those tackled so far include:

- 1—Domestic strike troubles.
- 2—Housing shortage.
- 3—Unemployment.
- 4—Reparations and debts.
- 5—Recognition of Russia.
- 6—Disputes with France.

Premier MacDonald and Premier Poincare of France have exchanged letters the former stating that the differences between the two countries are causing unrest and should be settled without delay. Great Britain, MacDonald said, is willing to meet France half way in solving the problems troubling the two powers.

Premier Poincare immediately replied in a conciliatory tone opening the way for a conference.

As MacDonald holds both posts of premier and foreign secretary it is probable that he would be one of the British delegates attending any Anglo-French conference that may be arranged.

It is understood that MacDonald's note was couched in general terms but made plain England's willingness to discuss a new security pact with France.

The cabinet has not given up the idea of a general conference of European powers and the United States on war debts and reparations. The premier evidently believes that France would be more likely to participate if the entente cordiale were renewed.

The activity which the premier-foreign secretary is showing in settling home and foreign problems is astounding friends and enemies alike. While finding time to deal with Russia and France he is seeking to placate Britain and the Irish Free State in their boundary dispute.

MUSCLE SHOALS ON AUCTION BLOCK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—
Muscle Shoals went on the auction block today and prospects appeared favorable that the famous power plant will have a new owner soon.

The house military affairs committee went into secret session today to consider final disposition of this great plant on which the government has spent more than $100,000,000 and to draft the legislation necessary to turn it over to a private operator under sale and lease.

Henry Ford is leading the bidders for the entire plant, with two rivals, the Associated Southern Power Companies, headed by the Tennessee Electric Power Company, and Elion E. Hooker, of Niagara Falls, president of the Hooker Electric Chemical Company.

Ford has offered to take the properties under a 100 year lease, paying therefore $100,000,000 during the life of the lease and to keep up government interest charges, with guarantees to manufacture 40,000 tons of fertilizer nitrates from which 200,000 tons of commercial fertilizers could be manufactured. He would sell this fertilizer to farmers at cost plus eight per cent. Ford would reserve the power.

The Southern Power Companies want the power for distribution in the southern states, subject to price regulation by the state utilities commission and by the federal power commission.
They ask the government $150,- 000,000 during the lease period.
They guarantee fifty thousand tons of fertilizer nitrates annually, or more if possible and agree to sell at once plus eight per cent, the latter never to exceed $2 per ton.

The Hooker proposal is for continued government ownership and maintenance of the Muscle Shoals project, the operation to be by a private company which shall take one-fourth the profits remaining above a plan amortizing the government expenditures during a 50 year period.

SUICIDE COMPLEX INHERITED FROM MOTHER BLAMED IN BEAUTY DEATH

Margaret Harding.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—A suicide complex inherited from her mother is seen by friends of the family of W. P. G. Harding, governor of the Boston federal reserve bank, as the reason for the death by her own hand of the girlishly beautiful Margaret Harding.

They recall the death of Mrs.
Harding in Birmingham, Ala., years ago. The mother, one of the most beautiful women of her day in the south, shot and killed herself in the Harding home. Almost simultaneously, in his home in another section of the city, Guy R.

Johnson fatally shot himself, fulfilling what was declared to be a suicide pact with Mrs. Harding.

Mr. Harding, who formerly was head of the federal reserve system of the United States, says his daughter's act was due to "her love for social life, dancing every night and smoking cigarettes."

In a note addressed to her father, saying, "forgiveness, the girl said, "I couldn't stand life any longer."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—
Justice Hoehling, in district supreme court, today overruled the demurrer of John L. Phillips, former Republican state chairman of Georgia, who was indicted along with nine others on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the sale of surplus lumber from army cantonments.

The accused were ordered to plead within twenty days.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—
Showing that the indictment failed to show facts upon which the charges were made, Justice Hoehling, in the district supreme court today sustained the demurrers in the army cantonment conspiracy cases involving Benedict Crowell, assistant secretary of war in the Wilson administration, and six co-defendants.

A new indictment will have to be drawn or the case lapse.
Indicted with Crowell were William A. Starrett, of New York

Morton C. Tuttle, of Boston, Clemens W. Lundoff, of Cleveland, Clair Foster, of New York, John MacGibbons, of Baltimore, and Chicago, and Jas. A. Mears, of Cleveland—all identified with contracting firms that built army cantonments. They were indicted on December 30, 1922.

The indictment charged that the defendants had deceived army engineers and had secured for their friends and associates some $30,- 000,000 worth of contract under the cost-plus system, without requiring competitive bids.

In his opinion, covering forty pages, Justice Hoehling found that the indictment failed to mention "the important fact that Secretary of War Baker approved the form of contract."

"The court is of the opinion," it was stated, "that while the indictment abounds with statements of conclusions, it fails to support the same as required in criminal proceedings."

WITHHOLD $100,000 AID UNTIL SENATE APPROVES COUNSEL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Within an hour after it met today, the senate was again plunged into a turmoil of bitter debate over the oil leasing scandals —started when Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, charged that the leasing of Teapot Dome and Elk Hills reserves to the Sinclair and Doheny interests were "made in utter disregard for law."

"The executive order (issued by President Harding) transferring the reserves from the navy to the interior department was absolutely and completely without authority and in open defiance of law," declared Norris, while a packed chamber and thronged galleries hung on every word.

While Norris held the floor with a vitriolic attack on the legality of the acts of the Harding administration, other developments came thick and fast in the sensational proceedings.

Hold Appointments Premature
Chief among these was the action of the senate appropriations committee, composed of nine Republicans and six Democrats, in voting to withhold from President Coolidge the $100,000 he asked to pay Silas
H. Straw and Thomas W. Gregory as special counsel to investigate and prosecute the Teapot Dome case, unless he sent the appointment to be confirmed by the senate.

The committee's action reflected a general feeling of "pique" among members of the senate against the president for having made his appointments, while the senate was still debating the resolutions granting him the authority.

Senators attending the meeting held behind closed doors, were reported to have freely expressed their displeasure of what they considered "the president's slight" of the senate.

The action of the committee was unanimous, all the more surprising in view of the fact that among its members are such staunch supporters of the administration as Senators Smoot, Utah; Lenroot, Wisconsin, and Curtis, of Kansas. The action was proposed by McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee.

Teapot Dome Developments Today
Other developments were:
1.—The senate public lands committee declined to accept the word of the four physicians attending ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B.
Fall that he is in a state of health so precarious that he cannot appear for questioning, and voted to send three medical experts to be chosen by Senators Walsh and Smoot to his bedside to make an additional examination.

2.—E. L. Doheny, who leased Elk Hills reserve from Fall shortly after loaning him $100,000 made an unsuccessful effort to appear before the committee to testify. The committee declined to hear him and instructed him to come back Friday.

3.—The naval affairs committee of the house launched an independent house investigation to ascertain what benefit the navy derived out of the leases; Secretary Denby having defended them as beneficial to the navy.

4.—Admiral Legregory of the navy, testified before the house committee that Secretary of the Navy and not subordinates, directed the making of construction contracts with the Doheny and Sinclair interests whereby they built storage tanks and harbor improvements for the navy in exchange for royalty oil.

Charge Executive Usurpation of Authority
The senate debate, however, held the center of the stage.

Norris, not only charged that the leases were without standing under the law, but he declared it was executive usurpation of authority that would abolish the legislative branch of the government and wreck any government.

"No lawyer can defend or uphold that (Harding) order, issued in defiance of an express act of congress," Norris said.

"If we close our eyes as the legislative body of the nation to this flagrant violation of law, we will set up a precedent established by despots and pirates that will crush the life out of the country."

"The executive order was illegal, then the leases made by the former secretary of the interior are as void and illegal as the original order of transfer."

Norris declared the Doheny contract was an expenditure of public funds in the form of oil for the erection of public works. He said the power of appropriating government funds rests solely with congress.

PARTY RESPONSIBILITY

Most Democrats and some Republicans, in recent years, have pictured National Committeeman Rud K. Hynicka, of Cincinnati, as a political figure with horns and a forked tongue. While Hynicka is of the old school in politics, which believes that a few should do all the thinking for the many, he said some good things at the Columbus gathering of Republicans. Among them was that "party solidarity brings party victory" and "that party victory brings party responsibility."

That is good, sound political sense. The trouble is that when that responsibility comes, there are those in each party who set themselves up as the ones to take all of the responsibility.

Why is it that any certain Republican or Democrat or a little group of each, should constitute themselves as the party, open an office in Columbus and assume to dictate legislation, appointments and candidates? That was the old order of things and the people stood for it, but in recent years the people have signified a willingness to take the time to be consulted and in a number of instances of late, have spoken rather pointedly at the polls.

The fellows who feel the entire weight of the party's responsibilities are again well offed and officered in Columbus and are again ready to dictate who the candidates shall be and on what platform they shall run. The people, they believe, will "fall in" when the command is given, and support their hand-picked candidates for state office. Right now they are attempting to dictate to the chosen leaders of the presidential candidacies who the delegates from the districts are to be. If they can do this, they will dictate to the delegates who the national committeemen shall be.

Their program has been made up and their slate prepared for the conventions. With self approval they draw long at their cigars and take gymnastic in-hales as they look with scorn upon the ambitions of any who might now approve of their program in full or who might have a suggestion to make as to what ought to be included in a party platform.

Unless the signs are other than they appear to be at this time, the people of Ohio are going to take a healthy wallop at the self appointed guardians this year. There are some serious evils in this state which need correcting and they are not going to be corrected by programers who have been handpicked by a few hotel room loafers.

R'COLLECT? HUH?

Going to Columbus the other day there were four local men sitting together on the train. When the news butcher came through with his apples and the boys had provided themselves with a supply of "Delicious," the conversation went back to the good old days, and boy like, the stories were interspersed with the question: "R'collect? Huh?"

And, "them was the good old days." R'collect in the late fall when it was butcherin' time? R'collect how you chased the pig all over the lot and into the neighbor's lot; how you stuck him in the wrong place and finally had to run him down before he could be properly dispatched by an older head who knew just where the stickin' was to be done? R'collect how, after you had him "dead as a door nail" how you heaved and grunted until you got him in the scaldin' tub and how you scraped and scraped until that old "hawg" looked like old Bill Somebody's bald head? R'collect that when the cracklin' were ready, how everybody stood around and munched at 'em?

R'collect when Newt So and So's cow broke through the fence into his neighbor's green corn field and the talk of the neighborhood was whether "she'd founder herself or not?"

R'collect that old red cow, with the one eye, that you brought into town from the farm and r'collect how she'd drag you all over the yard every night when you wanted to change the place of "stakin' her out?"

R'collect the dried corn in the wood house. It hung from the same beam where that boot strap hung? R'collect?

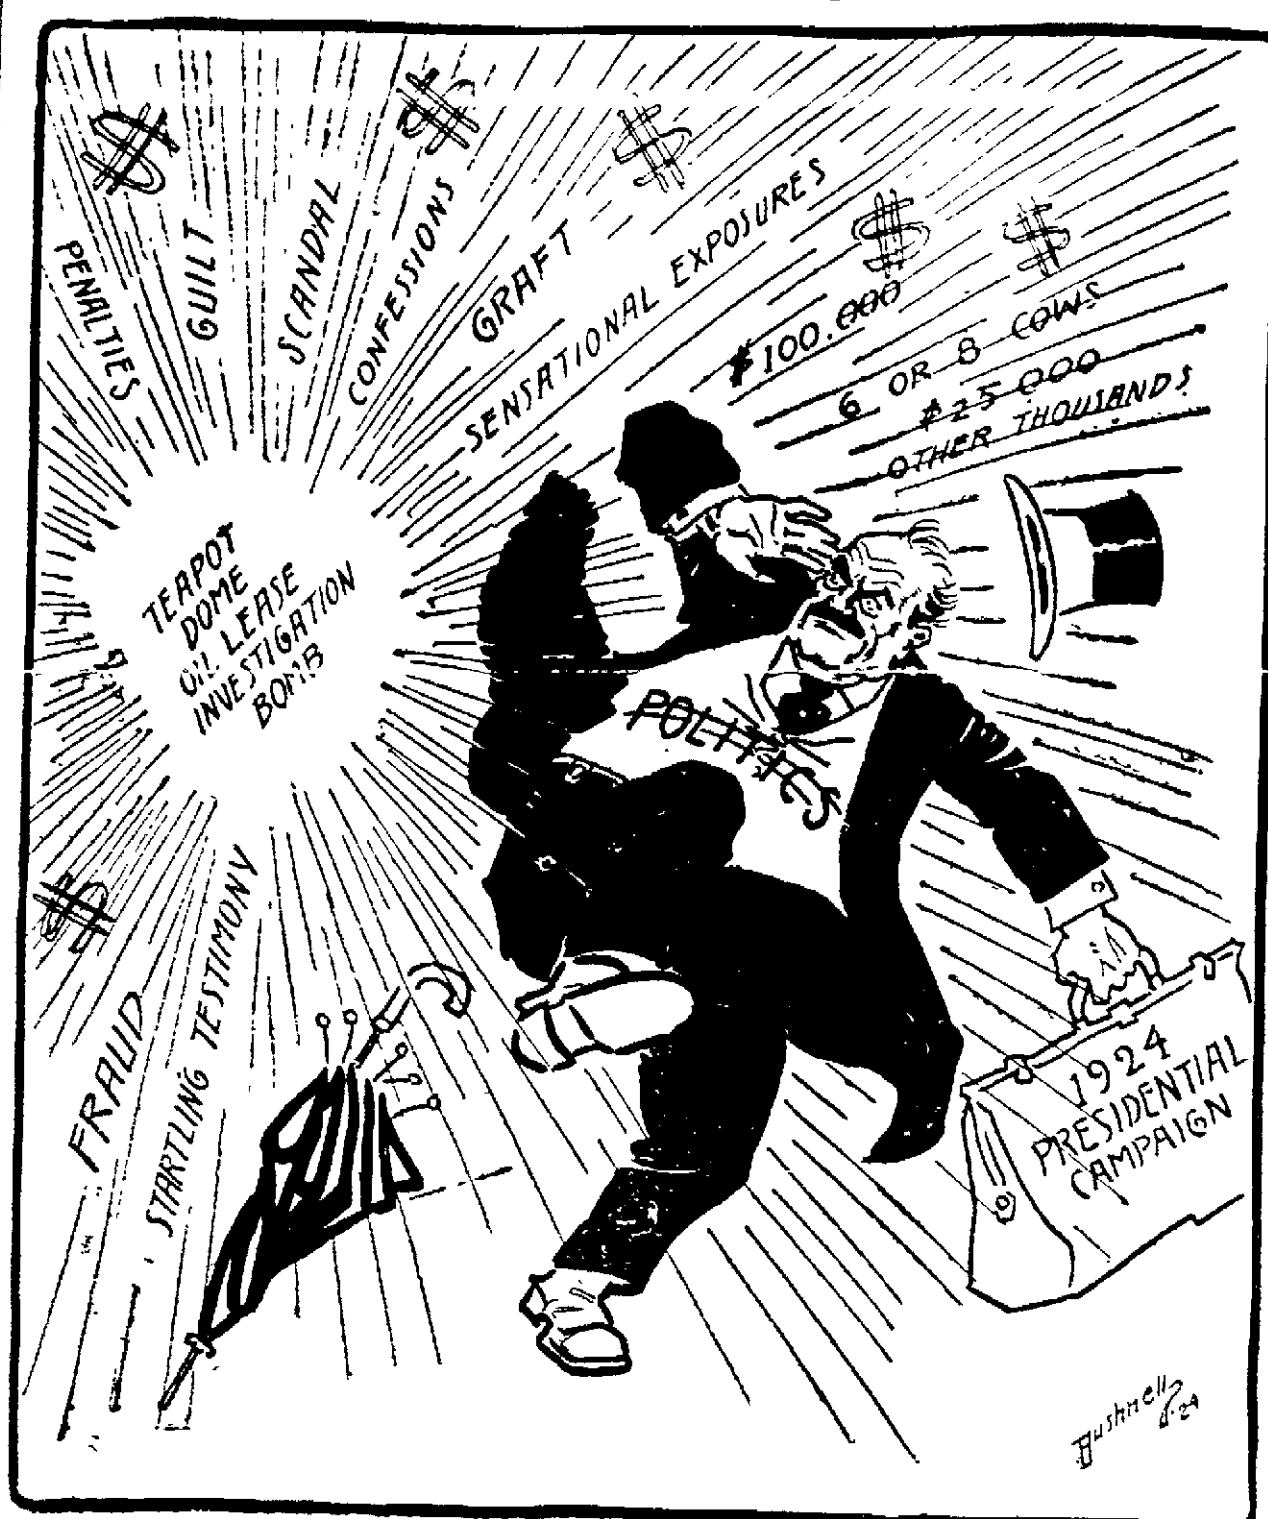

R'collect how you dug a hole in the back yard to plant the "taters" and turnips and how you filled her up with straw to keep them from freezin'; and how on Halloween the remainder of the garden was used to decorate the porches of neighbors; especially "them as yuh didn't like?"

If you have never lived in a small town; if you don't know the cracker box and the spit box in the old grocery; if you never drank from the old town pump and watched the horses, cows and chickens drink from the moss covered old watering trough, you won't appreciate this sort of reminiscin'!

But, "them was the good old days." R'collect? Huh?

There are plenty of big political lawyers available for the "Dome" investigation.

KOMICAL TELEGRAMS

"Doc" Saunders isn't a drinkin' man, but Sunday night he had trouble going to sleep. Finally after tossing around a couple of hours he was dead to the world. CRASH, CRASH! Right in the middle of the night "Doc" jumped out of bed and grabbed his weapon. Bang—he didn't hit the burglar but he sure did smash a plate glass mirror into a thousand pieces.

Most everyone knows John Flannagan, trusty employee of the John Lersch Company. John had trouble getting to work on time. He'd slip back a foot every time he advanced one. He couldn't understand it and was rather worried till "Bob" Lersch called his attention to the fact that he had the right shoe on the left foot.

Seems as though the Democrats in Washington are not putting very hard for Denby and Fall.

If they add Baker and Pomerene to the counsel for the prosecution, Washington ought to get to be an exciting place.

Course there's no politics mixed up in it. Nothing like that—that's why Denby refuses to discuss the matter.

Before this thing is over they'll probably have all those officials in jail, just like you think they will.

The Democrats are simply wild about it, that's why they want Denby's and Fall's scalps.

The House voted $100,000 for the President to employ counsel. You simply can't keep the lawyers away from the pie counter.

If they make it look tough for Coolidge, what will Mac Adoo?

"There's nothin' unusual in borrowin' chairs an' dishes for a party, but when they ask 't' borrow one's bootlegger things are goin' purty fer," said Toll Binkley, today. "The servant problem ain't nothin' worse, 'specially th' public servant problem."

The grape juice interests are unanimous in endorsing Master Bryan for the Presidency.

I hope Nick Keilling and Skip Hunnan dispose of their oil interests, first thing we know they'll be running for the Senate.

This Doheny person mixed up in the affair is a Democrat, and for once the Republicans seem to be glad of it.

You see I only read Republican papers and it's the first time I ever suspected the Republicans of doing anything wrong.

Hunman and Keilling may be innocent but it wouldn't surprise me if they were mixed up in "The Elk Hill field," they're both life members of Elyria Lodge.

Even some of the Rear Admirals will find themselves much further in the rear.

Course if we'd elected Cox, things would have been different. If you don't think so, ask Tom Conway or Charlie Tite.

But it's great to know there's no politics connected with it.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

Eight young men, unafraid of the weather, plunged into the Atlantic ocean the other day and swam for a crucifix. The crucifix had been thrown into the sea by a priest of the Greek church as a part of the celebration of the Feast of the Epiphany. Queer and useless, you say. Perhaps represented something tangible and worth while in the value of the thing it represented, pain and suffering could not count. There should be in the lives of every man and woman convictions that are worth every cost.

A New England man has designed a combination flag of all nations which he would have supplant all national flags. He calls it a harmony flag. Would it not be better to bring up young people to love and honor the flag of their own country to such an earnest degree that they might better appreciate the significance of all flags and all nationalities? Only by being truly patriotic can we understand something of patriotism means to citizens of other lands. Only by being truly loyal to our own country first can we enter into an understanding of the real spirit of internationalism. By sacrificing our own flag we sacrifice our greatest possibility of usefulness.

Read this strangely interesting letter left by a young man who committed suicide in a cheaply furnished room in New York.

"According to prevalent ideas, this is a cowardly act that I am committing. Be that as it may I offer no excuse except that life is this world is for men made of sterner stuff than I.

Do we not learn a lesson from this note? It was evidently written by a thoughtful man. Does it not bring us to pause and consider that to many people—perhaps far more than we suspect—life is a very different matter? It may be a great deal harder for the man next to you in the street car, or next door, to maintain himself at a decent level of life than you have ever suspected. You may be fortunate in health and strength and circumstances and habit of thought—far more fortunate than your fellow. You do not know, can not know, his temptations, his trials, the demands made upon him, the calls for sacrifice and service that come to him.

SIDNEY WEBB

The selection of a man to fill the post of president of board of trade in his cabinet was not a difficult task for England's new Premier, Ramsay MacDonald. Sidney Webb, the man chosen, stood out as the logical man Webb is a writer and authority on economic subjects. He has written several comprehensive works of economics and sociology, his wife collaborating with him in these. He was the principal founder of the London school of economics.

This isn't his first public service by any means. He has acted on several royal commissions and committees and has represented the Seaham division for the laborites since November, 1922.

He has served on the London county council and the senate of London University.

He was born in London, July 13, 1859, and was educated in private schools and continental colleges. His first post was as clerk in a London office.

In the United States, according to the census figures, there are nearly 23,000 women who operate grocery stores.

COUNTY IS DIVIDED ON RE-APPRAISAL

300 TAXPAYERS ARE MOSTLY ALL AGAINST RAISES

Upwards of three hundred taxpayers of Lorain County attended the hearing called by the county commissioners at the court house this morning, showing that there was general interest in the proposition to re-appraise real estate in the county as suggested by county auditor Monroe Welty.

Blames Bond Issues. Commissioner W. B. Richmond presided, and read the communication received by the board by Auditor Welty, and then said that the taxing question was a very important one. Everyone felt that their taxes were too high. Scarcely a district but what was behind and they had had to issue bonds to cover deficiencies. He asked that each township and district should be re-appraised so that there would be no more bonds. He stated that in many cases the people were to blame for conditions for in many cases they would go and pay their taxes, come into his office and complain, and before they left ask for road improvements. Also the people were to blame for supporting bond issues, not stopping to think that the bonds must be paid. If the commissioners listened and granted all the requests for improvements made, they would soon bankrupt the county. He also made the statement that this county was bonded for but $34,000 which was the smallest of any county in the state. He also declared that the commissioners would ask the voters to support a one mill levy for roads, stating that if they were maintained this would have to be done or the commissioners hands would be tied.

Auditor Welty, was called on and said that the impression prevailed that he was for raising taxes. This was not so, but he had simply complied with the law in making his recommendation. He stated he had arrived at his conclusion that a new valuation be placed on property from real estate transfers that had been made in his office. The role of townships was then called.

Claim Over-Taxed. Brighton—Clarence Goss, that the duplicate was too high. The township wanted nothing but what was fair, and would stand for whatever was done. Brighton is taxed higher than any other district in the county, due to a school bond issue.

Henrietta.—L. W. Kothe, that some parts of their township were valued too high, and rates should be readjusted.

Ernest Pierce, said the land was appraised as high as it would sell for.

Pittsfield.—W. J. Hines, said so far as he was concerned he was willing to stand for a reappraisal. Russia—A man spoke up and said the impression in the township was that taxes were too high. He was willing to have valuations equalized.

Richester Village.—Mr. Jewett said he felt as if values should be equalized. Land in the north of the county brought as high as $500 an acre, but he could not get over $70 for his farm. He thought the higher priced property should be put on at its true value.

Avon Village.—A. D. Bliss responded and said the people did not realize that bond issues meant to them, such as school bonds. Fictitious values were placed on much property in his village, by city promoters who had opened allotments. They should be made to pay, but so far as the farm lands were concerned they were as a rule paying all they should.

Attack Speculators. Mrs. Jennie Hurt, also spoke and said the people were not to blame for the school bond issue, but the five men who had voted for it without giving the people a chance to vote were to blame.

Avon Lake Village.—Will Hines said that speculators in lake property had raised values beyond paying all it should be. He complimented the commissioners and Auditor Welty for doing their duty, but was against a raise in taxes.

Amherst township.—Ward Tolhurst believed their taxes were high enough.

Amherst Village. and South Amherst village were not represented.

Black River.—R. C. Newman said he was opposed to a reappraisal.

Brownhelm.—Milo McQueen opposed to reappraisal.

Camden.—Conrad Bechel, that equalization was all right. He had an 8 acre farm, worked hard and just split even.

Another man said his farm was taxed at $70 an acre and it would not bring that much if put on the market. They were against reappraisal.

Carlisle.—Eugene Stiles said conditions in his township were the fault of the people. He complimented Auditor Welty as being one of the best officials the county ever had. He called attention to a wide variance of values in the township, and said that out of 100 miles of improved road in the United States, Lorain county had one mile, and that was why the taxes were high. He believed in a re-adjustment of values.

Crafton.—Mr. Hyland, trustee said they were not in favor of reappraisal but the board wanted to do the right thing, and would stand for whatever was decided on.

Favor Re-adjustment. Eaton—L. T. Davis believed the land was appraised high enough now except in some isolated cases.

Treasurer. Walter Ludwig spoke up and said that he did not want a rule the re-appraisalment would result in raising farm values.

Elyria township.—Trustee Chas. Schable was against re-appraisal. Trustee Chambers favored a re-adjustment, and Mrs. M. Roberts thought there ought to be a re-valuation.

Columbia.—Mr. Hyland, trustee said they were not in favor of reappraisal but the board wanted to do the right thing, and would stand for whatever was decided on.

LaGrange.—G. L. Richmond against re-valuation in either village or township.

Ridgeville.—George Fortune could not see how a re-valuation could take place without re-valuation. Anna Nieding said that promoters had put an inflated valuation on much property, and they could not see why other property should be valued at the same rates as that which had been inflated.

Oberlin.—Mayor Henry Smith vigorously opposed any raise in rates. Oberlin was in good shape and was paying its bills, in spite of the fact that they got no tax revenue from the college. Bonded indebtedness was but $28,800. He presented a large petition from residents protesting against any re-valuation.

Sheffield Lake village.—R. J. Aspen said they had money enough to care for all expenses. He was against re-valuation or re-adjustment.

Wellington township.—Willis Hines, for re-adjustment.

Wellington village.—A petition was presented protesting against any change.

Lorain city.—J. C. Standen, city auditor, thought possibly some values needed re-adjustment. Dr. O. S. Brown, against re-valuation. August Baldwin thought this was not the time to re-appraise as values were inflated, and expenses too high. "The minute a man gets into office," he said, "they have to have a stenographer. One stenographer would do the work at the city hall. He wanted to wait until a break came before things were changed."

Dispute on Voting. Elyria city—Mrs. May Friday said that there were always discrepancies in values. She believed people who did not own property should not be allowed to vote for bond issues. She was against a re-valuation. Thomas Conway took issue with Mrs. Friday, saying that most people owned their property and that re-appraisal always paid taxes. Henry Anderson said that if his business wasn't getting enough income to pay for conducting it, he would cut down expenses and that was what the city and county should do.

Henry Wurst thought a re-adjustment might help.

Carl Smith believed the city should be re-valued, and that the entire county should also be re-valued.

Money Value Case Loses. Dan Symons, assistant prosecutor stated that a recent case brought by the Buckeye Pipe Line Co. in Montgomery county, where appeals was of vital interest to this as well as other counties in the state. The Pipe Line Co. was a public utility and their property had been valued under the law at its true value in money. They brought injunction proceedings restraining the collection of taxes in the ground that other property had not also been valued at its true value in money. They won their case, and it was quite likely that every public utility would take advantage of the situation and refuse to pay their taxes on present valuations. In this county the Buckeye Pipe Line Co. had made a survey and had determined that their property was valued at 53.1 per cent of its value. Under the Montgomery court ruling that's all the county can tax them for. Instead of their full value in money at present assessed. Mr. Symons stated that the case would probably be fought out in court, but if the county lost it would mean a re-adjustment in taxes and values, for the utilities could not be taxed there for a larger proportion in values than other property was taxed.

At the close of the hearing Commissioner Richmond announced they would decide whether there would be a re-appraisal of the property of the county, some day this week. "If we decided for re-appraisal, it's up to each taxing district to see that good men are put on the job to value the property," he said.

SUES FOR $800 Mabel Lewis, a minor, has begun suit against Elizabeth Kelling, administrator of the estate of J. E. Kelling and Eugene Kelling. FIND BODY OF MURDERED STUDENT

Dental Student at Cincinnati Beaten Up Before Being Thrown Into Creek

CINCINNATI, Jan. 30.—The body of John A. Mazzola, 25, dental student at Ohio Dental College, was found half submerged in Duck Creek in Norwood this morning. The victim had been stabbed about through the head and his face horribly battered. He was murdered sometime during last night, police say.

Motive for the crime may have been revenge or robbery. His money was untouched, but his large diamond ring was missing.

Police are working on a clew involving a young woman in Norwood.

Mazzola was of Spanish extraction, unmarried and a native of Panama.

GRIFFIS FREED IN BERGDOLL "PLOT"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Corliss H. Griffis, of Hamilton, O., ex-American officer, was released this morning from the German prison in which he has been serving a 21 months sentence for attempting to kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American draft dodger, according to a cablegram to the state department from the American embassy in Berlin.

ELYRIAN SPEAKS AT FISH AND GAME MEET

COLUMBUS, Jan. 30.—Dr. K. Y. James, Cleveland, president of the Northeastern Ohio Fish and Game Protective Association, will be elected president of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, meeting here today, it is forecast. I. S. Myers, Akron, is president and is not expected to seek re-election, it was announced.

Delegates from all over Ohio will represent the membership of 100,000 at the convention. Among speakers are former Governor Harris, Cleveland; Senator J. F. Burke, Elyria, and Harry W. Hutchins, Cincinnati.

FOUR DIVORCE SUITS FILED

Fannie GeMeiser, Lorain, asks a divorce from Bert GeMeiser, on the ground of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. She also asks an injunction preventing his interfering with her.

Ethel M. Zeigler, also Lorain, sues Joseph Zeigler for a divorce on the same grounds. She charges her husband with drinking, and with striking herself and eighteen months old baby.

Marion L. West, asks a divorce from Wm. E. West. He is accused of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. She states he has not properly supported her and she has had to teach school. She also alleges he keeps company with another woman, making it impossible for her to live with him.

Sylvia Greenfield in a divorce petition charges Albert Greenfield with gross neglect and extreme cruelty. She states he has accused her of misconduct. At present they are living in but one room with their young daughter, and she refuses to live with him longer. The couple came here from LaGrange.

Eugene Hicks Hurt In Sidewalk Fall

Eugene Hicks of 1611 East avenue, was taken to Memorial Hospital last evening at eleven o'clock unconscious as a result of a fall on the icy pavement on Washington avenue. When he was examined at the hospital it was learned that he suffered no serious injuries but that there were contusions on the head and hip. He is reported as doing nicely today.

AWARDED $6,500 DAMAGE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 30.—The first woman to receive the new maximum award, $6,500, under the Ohio workmen's compensation act, has been given to Mrs. Isabel D. Butterworth, Columbus, widow of R. H. Butterworth, who died from injuries sustained while employed by the Tri-State Engineering Company, Zanesville, the state industrial commission announced today. The state constitutional amendment, effective January 1, last, raising the maximum death award from $5,000 was adopted at the November election.

"It is not claimed by anyone that congress passed a law appropriating this oil to be spent for building storage tanks, erecting of docks or dredging of channels," said Norris.

"If such conduct on the part of executive officials is continued, it will bring ruin to any democracy or republic. It would abolish the legislative branch of government, and set forth a monarchy, even though the term of office would be only a few years."

"If this act is passed unchallenged, you set a precedent which would permit a future despot, if he obtained the power, to set aside and nullify every act of congress."

Norris declared the Doheny interests knew "that every step was made without warrant of law."

"Every particle of property or land taken from the government must be paid for," he shouted. "They knew this too when they entered the contract."

Denies Assertion

While I think the damage and loss to the United States, as exceedingly great, that is not the worst feature," continued Norris.

"The worst feature is that if we do not proceed to annul and recover, and punish all those guilty we then have established a precedent that carried to its ultimate conclusion will mean the end of this republic as such."

Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, objected to Norris' statement that the question had been discussed in cabinet meetings.

"Secretary Denby said the question was not discussed in cabinet," said Smoot.

Senator Jones, New Mexico, read a letter from the president, dated Jan. 29, in which he had taken up the leaders in cabinet. Norris also said the late President Harding admitted the question was brought before cabinet.

Norris bitterly attacked the navy for entering a contract without authority of congress for construction of storage tanks in exchange for royalty oil.

"That only adds to the grievousness of the error committed," he said. "The navy assumed the power of congress. That makes the thing 10,000 times worse."

"The navy defended the contract on the ground that the law-making body did not know its business so the executive department made a law of its own in an effort to make the contract legal."

"That to me makes the thing a terrible nightmare."

Norris was savage in his assault on the Harding cabinet. "In the cabinet were men of great legal reputations. Fall himself was a lawyer and a great lawyer," he said.

"If the matter was discussed it seems the secretary of state should have told his associates they were violating a law. A law so plain that anyone who read it could know its meaning."

"But no one objected."

"Referring to the repudiation of testimony by Edward B. McLean that he had loaned $100,000, Norris said:

"I doubt now if we can believe that man under oath."

Norris charged the "McLean loan was a put-up job, pure and simple, in order to lay the foundation so that that fellow might say he borrowed the money from McLean, not expecting the committee to send Senator Walsh to Palm Beach to question McLean under oath."

"Evidence of Fraud"

"But no one conversant with the case ever expected that the public would believe this cock and bull story," Norris added.

"McLean's story is one of the best evidences that there was fraud and corruption in this lease," he said.

Norris charged that Senators must have been "humiliated" when they went to the White House reception and found McLean there.

"I know you were humiliated when the newly elected president of the U. S. came to Washington and went to live at the house of this man."

"I know also that your wives were humiliated when they went down the river on the Mayflower and saw his wife there. Loaded down with diamonds purchased by his millions and occupying a position second to none."

"This man had no claim to recognition except what he had purchased."

The first senatorial attempt to defend the part played by Secretary of the Navy in the naval oil scandal, was this afternoon by Senator Couzens, Republican, of Michigan, during Norris' speech.

Couzens declared there was "some justification" for Denby's actions in the case, pointing out an act passed by congress in 1920 which gave the secretary of the navy power to "exchange oil taken from government reserves."

Couzens contended congress was practically to blame for having passed a "loose law." He added Denby, however, had "acted unwise" in the Doheny deal.

Daughter Not Worried

MAAMI, Fla., Jan. 30.—Teapot Dome business does not worry me in the least, or even I would have remained in Washington," Attorney General H. M. Daugherty told International News Service today.

The attorney general is secluded in a hotel and is closely guarded by department of justice men and his secretary.

When asked what he thought about the attempt in the senate to oust him from the president's cabinet, Daugherty simply said: "There is no necessity for any statement."

He takes frequent walks, which apparently is his only mode of exercise. On such occasions he usually is carefully guarded by his secretary and other department men, who shoo away all interviewers.

PLAN ROAD CENSUS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 30.—To determine the needs of construction and maintenance of roads in various localities throughout Ohio, the state highway department will take a census of all vehicular traffic on the highway system, it was announced here today. Census surveys will be conducted at various points every three months, when a count of vehicles passing from 7 A. M. to 8 P. M. will be taken, it was stated.

DAVIS MAY RUN FOR GOVERNOR. FLAYS DONAHEY

CLEVELAND, Jan. 30.—Harry L. Davis, of Cleveland, former governor of Ohio, is again a candidate for that office at the Republican primaries next August.

This was the construction today placed upon his speech on "The State Administration," delivered before the Tippecanoe Club at the annual McKinley Day banquet of that veteran Republican organization, when, after extolling the record made by himself and associates in 1921 and 1922 he attacked the administration of his successor, Governor A. V. Donahey, Democrat, for its alleged failure to keep its pledges, and announced that he was "one who still is interested in the affairs of the state and who will do everything within his power to make it a better place in which to live."

Davis in his attack upon the Donahey record, asserted that the governor has abused the power of pardon and paroling prisoners, stating that in one year Donahey had pardoned far more prisoners than he did in two years, and that a lot of these were murderers.

Davis also defended the state administrative code, asserting that it had been the means of effecting great economies in the administration of the state's business.

Four indictments remain against Anderson. They charge larceny and extortion. District Attorney Hanton would not say today whether these charges would be pressed.

Anderson's conviction last night was followed by scenes seldom witnessed in New York following a criminal trial. While clergymen friends and co-workers in the dry cause continued to express unshaken faith in the crusader, Broadway toasted the jury in pre-Volstead fashion. Newspaper offices were flooded with telephone calls inquiring the verdict.

The jurors, it was learned, did not take any stock in Anderson's story that he secured $24,000 from a mysterious stranger known only as "John T. King." This money, he said, he spent for league publicity.

The jurors insisted that the league books themselves served to convict Anderson of forgery.

STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Announcement after the close yesterday of an increase in the dividend rate of U. S. Steel common and the publication of the corporation's fourth quarterly earnings statement, showing earnings of nearly $50,000,000, the largest since the war, stimulated buying of most classes of industrial shares in the forenoon trading on the Stock Exchange today.

Steeels were strong, Crucible rising 3-4, to 67 1-2. Gulf Steel 1-2, to 39 1-4. Bethlehem Steel 1-2, to 39 1-4. Republic nearly two points, to 53 3-4, and U. S. Steel over 3 points, to 106 7-8, a new high for the year and only 3 points below the top of 1923.

Oils held firm, backed by another increase in Pennsylvania crude oil quotations. Cossden Oil rose 1-4, to 33 1-4, California Petroleum one point, to 28 1-4, Pan-American 1-4, to 49 1-4, and Sinclair 3-8, to 23 1-4.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Stimulated by the extra dividend of the United States Steel Corporation and its remarkable earnings statement for the last quarter of 1923, the stock market opened very strong today.

Industrial shares jumped from one to nearly six points, Davison Chemical rising 5-8 to 53.

United States Steel rose 2-3, to 106; Bethlehem Steel 2-1, to 60; Gulf Steel 1-2, to 39, and Baldwin Locomotive 1-7, to 124 3-4. Studebaker gained 1-8 points to 102 3-4; Chandler Rubber, to 62, and United States Rubber, to 39 1-4.

Pan-American Petroleum advanced two points, to 50; Phillips Petroleum one point, to 40 1-4; Cossden Oil 7-8, to 37 3-4, and Mariand Oil at 39 1-4 and Pacific Oil at 55 5-8, up 5-8.

Railroad shares were firm. General Electric rose 3-4 to 215 3-4.

CONVICTED DRY HEAD PLANS APPEAL

Anti-Saloon League and Friends Rally to Aid of William H. Anderson, Found Guilty of Forgery

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Backed by the Anti-Saloon League of New York, of which he is superintendent, William H. Anderson, nationally known "dry" leader today prepared to fight his conviction as a forger, voted by a jury in criminal court last night, to the highest court of the nation if he needs be.

Anderson personally refused comment. His friends, clergymen and "dry" leaders, announced an immediate appeal would be taken from the jury's findings, and every effort made to keep Anderson from a term in Sing Sing prison. He was to be sentenced February 8.

Four indictments remain against Anderson. They charge larceny and extortion. District Attorney Hanton would not say today whether these charges would be pressed.

Anderson's conviction last night was followed by scenes seldom witnessed in New York following a criminal trial. While clergymen friends and co-workers in the dry cause continued to express unshaken faith in the crusader, Broadway toasted the jury in pre-Volstead fashion. Newspaper offices were flooded with telephone calls inquiring the verdict.

REPORTS SHOW U. S. THRIFTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—America is getting thriftier and thriftier, despite the modern day diatribes against American extravagance.

This was shown today by a official report of the Federal Reserve Board today showing that savings deposits increased $570,000 or 9.1 per cent during 1923. Savings accounts in 867 representative banks increased from $6,336,925,000 to $6,913,352,000.

Even in spite of the enormous outlay of spending during the Christmas season savings deposits increased nearly two percent during December.

Adele Garrison's New Phase of MY HUSBAND'S LOVE Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

When Richard Second Held the Centre of the Stage.

MARIET BRAITHWAITE herself, was the first to recover from the bomb which had just sent off. Although must have known from the d's flaring but perfectly clear utances that her mother had re-acted to her as "an anointed idiot" Edwin," she did not permit a hint of annoyance to cloud eyes as she stooped and kissed small son again.

"I imagine I am, dear," she said.

"I thought so," Junior observed, but Danzig thinks you know now. She told Auntie Lilian what my poor mother-in-law, shed and perspiring, had told Lilian concerning her daughter was in the chorus of warning laments which descended upon her luckless head. Even Marion, perception beyond her years, ed in attempts to distract his at- tention which her mother and I imply set in motion. Mother thum, hers, t. however, swiftly raising her pole, lifted her head a gallant maintenance of her dition.

No Disgrace.

Well, I did say it," she assever- d stoutly. "I'm not going to lie ut it. And it's no disgrace, that ver heard of, for a woman to be oted to her husband. But I do nk you've put him too much ur own flesh and blood, ried, and the like of lump it, you please."

I looked anywhere but at Lilian, as it was I had my work cut out me to control my indignation, and my embarrassed, roving s caught my mother-in-law's s and set fire to them, as might a ch to dry pine cones. Character- ically, she struck out blindly, as if something wounded, instinc- tively seizing upon the surest way hurt me.

"As for you, Richard Second," said in a majestic voice, "you a very bad boy to repeat things I hear. I am angry at you. But, n, I suppose I can expect nob- r else."

Her tone intimated that it was less for her to try to combat the cts of my injudicious training t I cared no whit for the slur.

I did dread intensely, however, any hurt to my little lad's feelings, and I knew that he had intended no harm. His propensity for repeating things with uncanny precision in season and out of season would have to be curbed, but I flattered myself that I could accomplish the task without humiliating his baby pride. The laughter is infectious.

I expected a tempestuous burst of sobe, but instead Junior drew his straight, plump little body erect and faced his grandmother with eyes so ludicrously like her own in argu- ment that I bit my lips hard to keep back the smile twisting them.

"Me NOT Richard Second," he said stoutly, lapsing into the baby talk he rapidly has been shedding. "Me Dooner, Dicky-Bird Graham Dooner, Richard Second, dat's a dumb-bell name, you bet your boots."

He brought the last words out in so emphatic and realistic an imi- tation of Katie that iron hands could not have held our risibles. Lilian, Harriet and I exploded into laughter, but Mother Graham turned with aw- ful hauteur upon me.

"I hope you are satisfied, Mar- garet," she began icily, "with the re- sult of your ridiculous training. The child not only flouts my authority but denies the name which is the only proper one for him to have, and substitutes that chimpanzee appella- tion that my son's fool friends have given him. When I think of how I have slaved and sacrificed for my—"

I knew the rest of the coming speech by heart, but it was not that which made me interrupt her. I saw that underneath her apparent arro- gance and ill temper she was sorely hurt and humiliated. Her adored grandson not only had embarrassed her in the eyes of her daughter whom she had not seen for so long, but had flouted her authority pub- licly. This to a woman who prided herself upon her discipline was un- bearable. It was the consciousness that unwittingly my child had spoiled her reunion with her daugh- ter which made me step to her side and slip my arm around her.

"Mother, dear," I said, "forgive us for laughing, but he was so funny in his naughtiness. Junior!" I spoke authoritatively to my small son, "come and tell Grandma you are sorry you were rude to her, and that Richard Second is a nice name."

GAS BLAMED FOR MINE BLAST WHICH TOOK 38 LIVES

Photo of rescue workers bringing out bodies of victims in the explosion in the Lancashire mine at Shanktown, Pa., and a general view of the mines.

Gas, inexorable enemy of coal miners, is blamed by investiga- tors for the blast in the Lan- cashire mine of the Barnes- Tucker Co. at Shanktown, Pa. Thirty-eight lives were lost. Fifty men were in the mine when death stole upon it. Three dug their way to safety and nine were rescued through the heroic efforts of John Eico, a fellow miner.

HOLLAND SHIP BELIEVED LOST IN RAGING GALE

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 30.—That the Holland steamer Albatross, formerly the Sasquehanna, sailing under the American flag, may have met an unexpected fate similar to the Cypripedium, was expressed here today. The Albatross, a 3,000-ton steamer, loaded with a cargo of coal, sailed from Antwerp, Belgium, on December 8. She has not been heard from since and the point was expressed that she sailed with all hands aboard. Gales raging off the Nova Scotia coast for the past week have caused considerable loss of shipping. The oil tanker Luxemburg, sailing from Philadelphia, had to be put in here for repairs today. Two members of her crew were injured when the tanker was buffeted about in heavy seas.

THEATRES

DREAMLAND—Last performance of the great picture, "North of Hudson Bay" as full of action and exciting incidents as any tale of the North ever provided. In addition, there is a first class comedy.

COLONIAL—The "national" famous picture, "Scaramouche" in the days of the French Revolution. Great pains have been taken to have the costumes and incidents of this historic period faithfully produced, and this has been done at large expense. Everywhere that it has been shown the public have flocked to see it for it stands as one of the very best productions of the day. In addition there is a very good comedy.

AMERICAN—Final performance of the sterling picture, "The Day of Faith," a screen offering of real merit, and one that deals with some of the problems that assail the human family today. The story is an entertaining one and the plot above the ordinary. Also a comedy that will please and a good feature picture.

GRAND—"The Man From Brodney's" the story of a young American who becomes involved in the intrigue of a European court, and falls in love with a lady of royal birth. This picture is a No. 1 production, in charge of competent actors who handle their parts above the ordinary. It is one of the best offerings of the year. The program is varied with a funny comedy, cartoon picture and other special features.

RIALTO—Dreda Aves, grand opera singer, whose home is in Norway. She is a protégée of Schumann-Heink, who assisted her in her education. Also a violinist and pianist of unusual ability. The music loving people of the city are due for a real treat.

"HAMLET" ROTTEN PLAY, OPINION OF JOHN BARRYMORE

John Barrymore

"Hamlet" is a rotten play. Terrible! This blow at the intelligence who hold forth adamantly that Mr. William Shakespeare's play is one of the greatest of all times comes from none other than John Barrymore, conceded to be the greatest living interpreter of Hamlet. He is going to appear in it in London shortly, one of the few American actors to ever essay Shakespeare over there.

"Deucedly" Wild Over Four Queens

LORAIN, O. Jan. 30.—Charles Brown held five queens in a game of "deuces wild."

But that didn't mean anything, he told Patrolman F. W. Meister. "Amos Davis said I swiped three deuces and grabbed the pot," Brown complained. "I've been robbed."

Meister arrested both men. Brown paid $5 and costs for gambling and Davis pleaded not guilty. He will be tried Feb. 1.

WHAT CRITICS SAY ABOUT DREDA AVES WHO SINGS IN CONCERT AT RIALTO ON FRIDAY

Elyria music lovers have a rare treat in store for them at the Rialto theatre, Friday night, Feb. 1st, when Dreda Aves, famous Mezzo Contralto, will be heard in concert, together with Charlotte Demuth Williams, violinist, and James Milne Charnley, composer and pianist.

The Norwalk Reflector Herald under date of Saturday, Jan. 26, "Norwalk music lovers who braved cutting blasts and zero weather last night to hear Miss Dreda Aves sing at the Giger theatre, were richly repaid."

"Patrons not familiar with the great advancement this superbly gifted young woman has made, were scarcely prepared for the extraordinary musical feast that had been prepared."

"Miss Aves is classified as a Mezzo Contralto. This phrase aptly describes Miss Aves' voice which, is of surprising quality throughout its wide range. Those who expected to revel in the opulent, velvety tones of the contralto, were not disappointed to say the least. But none save those who had heard Miss Aves sing, were prepared for the glorious, silvery notes in the upper register."

"The singer disclosed striking ability in using her voice in both the purely lyrical and dramatic songs. Besides being gifted to a striking degree vocally and the possessor of a winning appearance and striking personality, Miss Aves sings with consummate artistry and intelligence. Her singing last night was no only marked by surprising tonal beauty and expression but it was also strictly accurate as to pitch."

"Miss Aves opened her program with 'One Fine Day' from Madame Butterfly. This big number was interpreted with delightful artistry. All of Miss Aves songs were sung in a highly pleasing way. In 'Rest,' by Charnley, and 'Jasmine Dore,' by Scott, Miss Aves was particularly expressive and in the latter selection the lucious tones so touched the audience that storms of long continued applause followed. In 'Harbinger from Carmen,' Miss Aves sang in costume. She has scored a marked success in the operatic role of Carmen and afforded her audience a real treat in this number."

"What a rich treasure Miss Aves possesses in her voice. No better contralto tones are heard anywhere than hers and how remarkable it is that the higher notes rival those of the very best soprano, grand opera stars. It is small wonder that Madame Schumann-Heink became so enthusiastic."

That she made the former Norwalk girl her protégée. The singing of Miss Aves last night justified all the glowing praise musical critics have showered upon her.

"Miss Aves was most ably assisted by Charlotte Demuth Williams, violinist, and James Milne Charnley, pianist, composer, and pianist."

WHAT MEN DESIRE

is a woman who is staunch in her love, faithful and beautiful. Yet even such a woman is not always in possession of her own heart. She is beset by greed, temptation, doubt—THE OTHER GIRL—

Thus the story of "SCARAMOUCHE" deals with pulsating moments, scenes of stage and Court life—magnificence, grandeur.

10,000 passionate souls all enmeshed in a throbbing plot of surprise, humor and thrills.

RESIGNATION MAY BE PROMPTED BY COOLIDGE'S MOVE

Decision of the President to employ special counsel to act for the government in the oil land lease cases is looked upon in some circles in Washington as a direct slap at Harry M. Daugherty, attorney-general, and a move that may result in his resignation.

MAY TAKE LEADING PART IN PROBE OF OIL TRANSACTIONS

August T. Seymour, assistant attorney general of the United States, may take a prominent part in the government's action in the oil land lease cases because of the virtual disqualification of his chief, Harry M. Daugherty. He is from Columbus, Ohio, the home town also of Attorney-General Daugherty. Daugherty has volunteered to efface himself from the case because he was attorney-general at the time Albert Bacon Fall served in the cabinet.

SOCIETY

D. A. R. Select Delegates and Hear About Their New School

Elyria Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Brownell on Park avenue, assisted by Mrs. John Bath, Mrs. Cloyd Gull, and Mrs. Lawrence Webber.

At this meeting, Mrs. C. E. Losier, Regent, and Mrs. W. G. Sharp were nominated delegates to the 32nd National Convention to be held in Washington, D. C., during April, and Mrs. D. C. Martin and Mrs. Arthur Huse were nominated delegates to the State Convention to meet in Springfield, March 11-14th.

Following the business meeting and the social intermission during which refreshments were served, Mrs. W. L. Fay read an interesting paper on "The Industrial School For Mountain Girls in Tennessee, South Carolina." In part this paper mentioned that "Tennessee is a young school and a small school but one great in needs and great in potentialities. It has the distinction of being thus far the only boarding school for mountain girls established, owned and controlled by the Daughters of the American Revolution. The students are from North Carolina and Georgia, as well as from South Carolina, and are pure Anglo-Saxon, many of their forefathers having fought in the American Revolution. They have not been spoiled by contact with the outer world and represent girls who otherwise would not have had a chance.

"The aim of the school is broader than the education of the children's minds. It is to teach them how to live, how to make homes neat and attractive, how to sew, how to prepare nourishing food, and how to care for children. While the boarding department is only for girls, there is a mixed day school. Nor is the service confined to the needs of the children. The women of the community, some of whom walk several miles to Tennessee, are welcome at the industrial classes and canning clubs. At the night school for adults many have learned to read and write. Non-sectarian, but distinctly Christian, the school endeavors in all its teaching to point the way to better living. Church and Sunday School are held weekly in the school building and more than one hundred and forty people of the community join there for worship.

"The site of the school is of historic interest, for it is part of the land grant to Gen. Andrew Pickens for his Revolutionary services and here the General spent the declining years of his life. In a church yard not far from the school are buried several Revolutionary soldiers."

Mrs. Fay, as chairman of the Ellis Island work of the local Chapter, requested members to contribute wool, worsted, and crocheted cotton to the Chapter in order that it might be packed and sent to the authorities at the Island to be used by the immigrant girls and women during their often times long period of detention.

The next meeting will occur on Washington's birthday, February 22nd.

Music, Talks, Auction, Feast Feature I. O. O. F. Home Coming

Elyria Lodge 103 I. O. O. F. held their Home Coming or Get Together annual meeting last night in their hall with a large number present even though it was not a good night to get out. They started out with an oyster supper served by St. Clair Rebekah lodge, then after a short regular session of the lodge the committee in charge had a program which consisted of talks by the different members of the lodge, interspersed with music by Ralph Williams' Orchestra and singing by Ralph Williams. Considerable amusement was provoked by the reading of several telegrams. The music and singing were especially fine as was evidenced by the calling back for more after each number. The lodge gave a rising vote of thanks to all who had assisted the committee in making the evening as pleasant as could be. Special mention being given to orchestra, Ralph Williams' singing and to the ladies for serving the supper.

The meeting was closed with an auction sale, with C. M. Williams as auctioneer. Mr. Williams demonstrated that he could sell goods at some price or other and could do it right quickly. Some of the members stayed for games in the Club room after the program had been completed. While this was not as elaborate a program as this lodge has sometimes given yet the fact of the great variety in the different numbers made it one of the most pleasant affairs the lodge has had in some time.

QUAINT AND PICTURESQUE COSTUMES ARE DISPLAYED

The adjectives quaint and picturesque well describe some of the costumes displayed by the leading couturiers. The evening frock on the left is a quaint bouffant model—called the "kiss" dress. It has a foundation of black satin with overdress of lace and net. A Spanish shawl coat is the picturesque garment shown on the right. It is black, heavily fringed, with large red and green roses embroidered on it.

The simple frock in the center is composed of navy and white cotton crepe. The narrow front panel makes an uneven hem which is still one of the features of many of the more dressy type of gowns.

BOYS' WORK UNDER DISCUSSION AT ROTARY CLUB

In preparation for yesterday's weekly meeting of the Rotary Club, the Boys' Work Committee of which Emerson P. Postle is chairman, gave the members at the January 29th meeting questions pertaining to their individual service in the field. The papers were read out and referred to the committee and the results were tabulated and read by Mr. Postle Tuesday. They prove intensely interesting and were the means of furnishing a resume of the work actually in process of accomplishment.

Clayton Hall, W. O. McCallister and John Steinknecht gave short talks regarding the subject.

HEART-TO-HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty-one years old. When I was eighteen I had a date with a boy nineteen years old. He seemed to think a great deal of me. We were good friends until I was nineteen and then he asked me to go with him steady. I did for six months. Then he told me he didn't want to settle down; he wanted to go and have a good time, but he would always like me even after we split up. I tried to tell him I liked him, but he would not listen. We split up for six months and then one night at a dance he asked for a date. That was the first time we spoke in ten months.

I went with him again for another six months and then he got hurt and went to the hospital. While he was there for a week somebody went to see him and told him that I wasn't going to see him any longer. It made him angry at me. I tried to explain and tell him that it was not so, but he would not listen to me. He was in the hospital four weeks and I tried to see him often, but somebody would not let me. I would go to the hospital and tell him a lot of lies about me and he said if I didn't prove what I said he would not go with me any longer. He has been out for about seven months and we have not been friends.

I have seen him two or three times a week when I have come from work, but he doesn't even look at me. He hasn't gone with any girl steady since we quit. I love this boy and have ever since I was a little girl. He seemed to think the world of me. How can I gain his friendship again? I think sometimes if I would speak to him he might come back. Do not tell me to forget him, for I never will as long as I live. I do not care for any other boy in the wide world.

What We Forget Between 15 and 50

Schools teach, and nearly every home applies the rule against coffee and tea for children.

When middle age comes, a great many people remember the facts about the caffeine drug of coffee and tea, and how its regular use may disturb health. Often they have cause to remember what it has done to them.

How much better it would be not to forget—and avoid the penalties!

Postum is a pure cereal beverage—delightful, and safe for any age—at any time. Good for breakfast at home, for all the family; good for lunch at the club or restaurant; good with the evening meal; good with a late night dinner—good on any occasion. Postum satisfies, and it never harms.

Why not be friendly with health, all the time?

Postum for Health

"There's a Reason"

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

The Store That Buys Right So They Can Sell Right

'ELYRIA PREFERRED'—

You're a Stockholder— Help Yourself To Interest!

The fact that you live in Elyria—makes you a stockholder in Elyria. This is true whether you own property or pay rent—whether you're in business for yourself or lend your efforts and energies to another business—whether you are active or passive.

What would you think of a stockholder in any business that let his coupons go unclipped — that was vitally enough interested to be a stockholder, and not vitally enough interested to further the cause in every possible way he could.

Yet—that's just the situation—unless you do your best for Elyria—(paradoxically you collect interest by lending interest—and you cannot avoid being a stockholder.) Therefore it's obvious how much you benefit by giving Elyria your best—how directly your interests are Elyria's—and vice versa.

That most citizens are serving is evidenced by the definite progress Elyria is making. That Elyria will progress that much more rapidly if every citizen will lend his best—so that he may in turn collect greater return—is evident.

So this is our plea for your co-operation—trade at home—boost for Elyria—help the other fellow so that he may better help you.
